

THIRD THURSDAY NATURE SERIES

THE TOWN OF ROCHESTER ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION

COMMISSION presents a monthly series of speakers relating to nature, our local environment, recreation, agriculture, and beyond. Come to get informed, participate in inquisitive discussion, connect with your neighbors and the wide world of experiences waiting in your own backyard.

NOTE: Due to COVID-19 we will be coming to you via Zoom, see below for details.

MAY 20

PERMACULTURE

Andrew Faust - Center for Bioregional Living LLC

Feeding the World in Our Backyards

Learn how to Permaculture your home and garden! Andrew Faust will present his inspiring vision for greater food and energy resilience at home. Learn how to feed and provide power for our communities in ways that are truly regenerative and improve the quality of life and biodiversity on Earth, for our children to inherit.

Also learn about watershed based models of economic development that will insure land use patterns that will provide a full diet, year round food supply, for local people and resilient energy sources.

Faust will be showing how easy and necessary it is to grow and produce much more of what we need, all within our local community!

Center for Bioregional Living LLC
Ellenville/ Brooklyn, NY
www.permaculturenewyork.com

WHERE:

DIGITAL VIA ZOOM

CLICK HERE TO JOIN MEETING!

MEETING ID: 870 8793 5018

WHEN:

Every 3rd Thursday at 6:30 PM

COST: Free

For more information visit our facebook page at www.facebook.com/TORECC/.

Presented by: TOWN OF ROCHESTER ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION COMMISSION